EDITOR'S NOTE

It is with great pleasure that I present this volume of the JKKNIU Journal of Social Science, marking a significant milestone in our ongoing commitment to academic rigor and scholarly advancement. Since the faculty's establishment in 2006, we have remained steadfast in our dedication to fostering interdisciplinary research and promoting academic excellence. This volume reflects the diverse range of contributions from various fields within the social sciences, including Economics, Public Administration, Governance, Folklore, Anthropology, Population Science, Local Government, Urban Development, Sociology, and related disciplines.

The publication process for this journal is both thorough and demanding, ensuring that each article adheres to the highest standards of scholarly integrity. The contributions in this volume have undergone rigorous peer review, in line with our strict review policy, ensuring that they meet the expectations of both academic and professional communities. We incorporated plagiarism detection software (Turnitin) as an integral part of our review process, further strengthening the credibility and quality of the journal.

We are confident that the insights and findings presented in this volume will contribute significantly to advancing knowledge across a range of fields, addressing the needs of scholars, researchers, and practitioners alike. I would like to express my sincere gratitude to the authors whose scholarly contributions are featured in this issue, as well as to the reviewers for their invaluable insights. My appreciation also extends to the dedicated editorial team and faculty members within the Faculty of Social Science, whose collaborative efforts have been instrumental in the successful realization of this publication.
